In every great internal crisis our country has been saved by the United States Supreme Court — and the court came through with a classic decision in the steel case yesterday.

The court ruled, 6 to 3, that President Harry Truman seized the private property of the steel industry without legal authority and must return the mills to their owners, which the President did at once. The majority opinion, delivered by Justice Hugo Black, carried these significant words:

"The seizure 'can not properly be sustained as an exercise of the President's military power as commander-in-chief of the armed forces.

"Nor can the seizure order be sustained because of the several constitutional provisions that grant executive power to the President.

"In the framework of our constitution the President's power to see that the laws are faithfully executed refutes the idea that he is to be a lawmaker.

"The founders of this nation entrusted the lawmaking power to the Congress alone, in both good and bad times. It would do no good to recall the historical events, the fears of power and the hopes for freedom that lay behind their choice. Such a review would but confirm our holding that this seizure order cannot stand.

"The judgement of the district court is affirmed."

On April 29 U. S. District Judge David A. Pine denied the President with a decision in Washington that the steel seizure was illegal. The government appealed — resulting in yesterday's final answer.

It is traditional that whatever man's political or social beliefs were in previous public life he, when elevated to the United States Supreme Court, sooner or later becomes a judge — a strictly independent judge. The tradition is still working.

All of today's supreme court justices were appointed by either President Roosevelt or President Truman. That did not prevent them from cracking down on government overstepping itself.

In view of the decision against the states and for the central government in the Tidelands case, and various and sundry extensions of federal authority through broader interpretation of the "interstate commerce" clause, there was widespread fear that possibly for once in our history the supreme court was going to let the people down in favor of the office-holding class.

That really was the prime issue in the steel case. If government can take big private property in a crisis it can take the property of little fellows any time — and when property rights vanish so does the protection of your very person.

But the court saw all this clearly. Justice Black's brief reference to the "historical events" leading up to the drafting of our federal constitution is obvious. He was thinking how our ancestors, hounded by the police agents of their European homelands, resolved here in America to set up a society in which the people would run the government instead of the government running them. And when Justice Black is joined in this majority thinking by such liberal — even radical — members of the court as Felix Frankfurter and William O. Douglas, the decision is unanswerable.

Of course President Truman didn't personally "think up" the steel seizure. He merely had some more of his usual bad advice.

What happens now to the CIO's 650,000 steel workers? Why, they're out on strike where any honest union man ought to be. Instead of going around the country threatening the government which belongs to the whole 155 million Americans.

The 650,000 aren't especially bright anyway — or they wouldn't have permitted Boss Phil Murray to publicly threaten what would happen if the supreme court didn't uphold the President. I think this fixed any lingering doubts in the court's mind.

The only difference between what Murray's trying to do in our country and what's happening right now in Paris is that over there the insults are shouted in French and here we speak English — and the English that the United States Supreme Court speaks is a lot more decisive and intelligent than the jargon of the city on the Seine.

Fulbright Says Act Would Freeze Industry

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said today he believes that the administration, in its interpretation of the Walsh-Healey Act, seeks to freeze industry in the areas where it now exists.

He is opposed to such a freeze, he said and for that reason will push pending amendments to the act. They are part of a bill to extend the Defense Production Act beyond June 30.

President Truman, in a letter to Vice President Barkley last week, criticized the amendments and urged their defeat.

The Walsh-Healey Act, passed in 1936, sets up labor standards, chiefly regarding wages, which must be met by firms contracting to sell materials, supplies and goods to the government. Unless they meet these standards they are denied contracts.

Fulbright contends that the Labor Department's administration of the act goes far beyond the intent of Congress and has the effect of preventing industrial expansion in other areas of the country, principally the south.

"I am heartily in accord with the principle of raising labor standards," Fulbright told a reporter, "but before you can raise standards in industry you first must have an industry."

The Walsh-Healey Act exempts from its provisions goods that may usually be bought in the open market. The Labor Department has interpreted this to mean goods bought by the government in the open market rather than on bids.

Since most of the government contracts are on a bid basis the act applies to anything the government buys on contract.

Fulbright's amendment would provide that the act shall not apply on goods usually sold in the open market to purchasers generally, even though the government buys them under contract.

A second amendment provides that interested parties to any of the rules, orders or interpretations of the act may, if they choose, appeal to the courts for judicial rulings on any disputed point.

A third amendment proposed by Fulbright was rejected by the Senate Banking Committee.

Under present administration practices the Labor Department establishes minimum wages on an industry or cost-to-cost basis. Fulbright proposed that they be based on minimums prevailing in the areas involved—part of a state or a few states—but not for the country as a whole.

Markets
STOCK MARKET
New York, June 3 (UP)—Traders moved cautiously on the stock market today as the steel strike brought steel production down to a trickle and was slowly throttling other industries.

Trading fell off sharply and prices tended easier throughout the list. Net losses were small in most instances. Sales in the first hour fell 50,000 shares from yesterday to a total of 190,000 shares.

Steel issues ignored the walkout. U. S. Steel was up 1-8, Bethlehem unchanged, and Republic off 1-4 point. Motors, which will soon be hit by lack of steel, dipped small fractions.

Ike Says He Always Favored Big Airforce

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today he always has favored a strong U. S. Air Force and is convinced air power will be dominant in any future war.

At the same time, in what might have been intended as a thrust at Senator Robert A. Taft, Eisenhower said: "Anyone who finds out that the ordinary foot soldier can be finally eliminated from war, I wish he would show me how to do it."

He also took an apparent dig at President Truman's action in deactivating an Air Force buildup in 1949.

Eisenhower met with reporters at the Pentagon a short time before donning the 5-star general to free himself for the political struggle ahead. He and Taft are the leading contenders for the Republican presidential nomination.

A few minutes after the news conference, Eisenhower bade a solemn farewell to the Army.

With a crowd of about 2,000 watching at the Pentagon's river entrance, his retirement orders were read and Secretary of Defense Lovett wished him "an affectionate good-bye and God-speed."

Lovett referred to the general services in and after World War II as "without precedent in the modern world."

Eisenhower replied: "Comrades and my friends: The uniformed services of the United States are too deeply imbedded in my heart to say a final goodbye. Let me say, until we meet again—and that goes for all of you from the secretary of defense to the newest recruit in the ranks—a good luck and carry on as you have in the past. Good-bye."

Then "Ike" gave a final salute and stepped into his car—a civilian again for the first time in 37 years—as an Army band played "Auld Lang Syne."

Politics took over as soon as the military stepped out.

The general lunched with leaders of the movement to win the presidential nomination — Sen. Taft.

GM to Go Ahead With Plant Plans
By HOWARD SUTTLE

New Era Washington Bureau
Washington, June 3 — General Motors Corporation is "going ahead with plans to locate a fabricating plant at Jones Mills," the Washington office of General Motors today advised Rep. William F. Norrell, Monticello.

Norrell reported that at his request, the General Motors office here had contacted George Zink, in charge of the corporation's fabricating division, at Detroit.

"I am informed that Mr. Zink had advised the Washington office General Motors is going ahead with plans to locate the plant at Jones Mills," the congressman added.

Norrell's inquiry followed reports that Zink had been approached to locate the new plant at Gum Springs, where Reynolds Metals company is now constructing a new aluminum ingot production plant.

"General Motors officials advised me that the only question to be decided about the location," the congressman added, "is where on the property purchased at Jones Mills the plant will be constructed."

Norrell said General Motors has already a resident manager and assistant manager at Jones Mills. He said the manager of the new plant will be Neil Laidler, and his assistant will be John Wilhelm.

"If they have not arrived at Jones Mills," he declared, "they are on the way, and will be there in a day or two."

Prisoners Defy U. S. Guards Four Wounded

Koje Island, Korea, June 3 (AP)—American guards fired riot guns into a prisoner of war compound tonight, slightly wounding four North Korean prisoners defying orders.

Prisoners in Compound 604 refused to remove clothing from the barbed wire fence obstructing the guards' view of the enclosure. The guards then opened fire with crippling shotgun blasts to drive the unruly POWs back from the fence.

Two of the prisoners were taken to a camp hospital for treatment. The other two were given first aid by fellow prisoners.

Defiant Red POWs earlier set up a new flagpole in their prison pen in place of one knocked down by guards yesterday.

"It will not be there very long," commented Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, Koje commander.

Boatner summoned chiefs of three Red-controlled compounds. He gave leaders of Compounds 85 and 96 an ultimatum to halt down Red flags. It was not disclosed what he told the third POW leader whose compound — 91 — already had lowered its flags.

The Communist flag pole in Compound 602 was smashed yesterday by a U. S. Patton tank riddled by infantrymen carrying bayonet-tipped rifles.

Tension in the hate-filled prison stockades remained high as the accidental discharge of a machine gun killed one POW and wounded another in Compound 78. Prisoners refused to give up the body or permit camp officials to take the wounded man to a hospital.

Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, commander of the prison camps, expressed concern over the number of accidental shootings by Allied guards.

Two POWs were wounded yesterday. One was shot by a South Korean officer, who was goaded by shouted POW insults.

President Is Shocked at Rhee's Action

Pusan, Korea, June 3 (AP)—President Truman today told President Syngman Rhee he was "shocked" at political developments in the South Korean republic, reliable government sources reported.

The U. S. Embassy confirmed that a note had been delivered to Rhee but refused to divulge its contents.

Korean sources quoted Truman as writing that unless immediate steps were taken to ease the political crisis, Korea will face a grave situation. The informants added that Truman pointed out to Rhee the United Nations had sent troops and materials to defend democracy in the young republic.

Rhee has proclaimed martial law around the provisional capital and may dissolve the National Assembly. The assembly—12 of its members already jailed by Rhee's police—quit work today for lack of a quorum.

A source close to President Syngman Rhee said the aged chief may dissolve the Assembly late today or tomorrow. But another source in the government said Rhee would withhold the action pending out come of a compromise plan offered to his opponents who normally control the assembly.

The compromise was offered by 52 pro-Rhee assemblymen who withdrew, saying they "could not continue" to work with legislators they considered "corrupt."

It calls for: 1. Re-election of Rhee when the Assembly picks a head of state late this month.

2. Adoption of a constitutional amendment providing for election of presidents by the people rather than the Assembly.

3. Adoption of a constitutional amendment providing for a two-house Assembly instead of a unicameral body.

4. These provisions to be put into effect two years from now.

The 52 pro-Rhee assemblymen pulled up stakes this morning. The action made it practically impossible for the 183-member body.

Steel Walkout Spreads to Other Industries; Truman Action Awaited

Coal Miners, Railmen Being Laid Off Fast

Pittsburgh, June 3 (AP)—Production faded to a dribble today in the day-old steel strike. Allied unemployment mounted.

An estimated 28,000 coal miners who produce coal for steel-making furnaces have been laid off for the duration. Thousands of railroaders awaited similar furloughs.

The steel industry fell from a daily production of more than 300,000 tons to a tiny fraction of that amount 24 hours after the Supreme Court ruled the government had no right to seize the industry April 9.

President Philip Murray of the CIO United Steelworkers ordered his 650,000 workers in basic steel to drop their tools as soon as he heard the decision. His men won't work without a contract, Murray vowed.

The walkout is orderly across the nation. The giant U. S. Steel Corp., said some of its plants were not even being picketed. With the industry closed down tight, there was little for pickets to do but idly pace in front of plant gates.

The trickle of production left is accounted for by firms like Weirton Steel Co., in Weirton, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., which deal with independent unions and by companies like Kaiser Steel, which have signed agreements with the union.

The steel strike halted iron ore mining in Minnesota with about 10,000 diggers joining the walkout near Hibbing, Minn.

Both union and industry expressed willingness to get together for new negotiations but neither made specific plans to meet at the bargaining table immediately.

In the absence of any concrete move for new contract talks, industry and union sources see little hope for an early settlement based on any possible negotiations.

Skeleton crews designated by the steelworkers remained inside the mills to prevent damage to costly equipment. Damage would mean a slow work return if and when a new contract is signed.

Union rank and file, who have been without a contract since Jan. 1, received the long awaited court ruling with bitterness and anger. Many said they are not financially prepared for a long strike.

The steel mills have been closed three times since the first of January — once while the industry prepared for a long strike.

British Place Russian Radio Under Siege

Berlin, June 3 (UP)—British troops under orders to "meet force with force" laid siege to Russian-run Radio Berlin in Western Berlin today in the first Allied retaliation for the Soviet new "creeping blockade" of the city.

One hundred British military police and 100 West Berlin police surrounded the block-long building in Charlottenburg in the British sector, threw up barbed wire barriers around it and prevented the Communist day shift from reporting for work.

The British said the siege would continue until the Russians evacuate the radio studios, the largest in Germany. No one will be permitted to enter the building, the British said, but the night shift and the 24 armed Soviet guards may leave whenever they like.

At mid-morning two Russian army officers and a civilian drove past the entanglement to a British army headquarters building, where they asked permission to enter the studios. Refused, they drove back to the Soviet sector.

The Soviet army car was followed through the streets by a crowd of fist-shaking, shouting West Berliners.

A number of Communists tried to demonstrate outside the radio studios and one woman was arrested by West Berlin police.

The Soviets seized the studios when they liberated Berlin in 1945, and have rejected numerous western demands to evacuate.

The worsening Berlin crisis also brought these developments:

1. Communist "people's police" last night sealed off the Stinnes-Eckert district of the American sector of Berlin at a point where it extends several hundred yards into the Soviet zone of Germany, but did not occupy it as they did three similar British border districts last Saturday.

2. Maj. Gen. C. F. Coleman, British commander, sent a note to the Soviet control commission protesting the Soviet annexation of the British border districts of Eiskeller Fichterviese and Ellengrund last Saturday and ouster of their 300 German residents. Coleman said the borders "should not be tampered with."

3. Two Communist "people's police" fired several rifle shots at two Western Berliners who tried to sneak across the border from the American sector into the Soviet zone town of Klein Machnow in defiance of the Soviet ban on entry into East Germany without special permits.

The West Berliners were not wounded and escaped back into the American sector, although East German police pursued them some yards into the American sector.

4. Eight British tanks rumbled through British sector streets in a show of strength. They passed by the Radio Berlin building, but did not stop there.

5. Soviet border guards prevented American and British military police patrols from making their usual routine patrols along the 16-mile highway across the Soviet zone between Berlin and Western Germany for the eighth straight day.

President Has Three Courses to Follow

Washington, June 3 (AP)—A bill all-out strike shut the vast steel industry down tight today, and White House weighed its next move in the six-month-old union-management struggle.

Leaders of both the industry and the striking CIO Steelworkers Union suggested renewed contract talks but neither side proposed date for negotiations.

Unless the contenders got together soon, it was believed President Truman would take some new action to end the strike — because the walkout is costing the nation and its crucial defense effort 600,000 tons of steel daily.

Truman had about three choices: (1) sit tight and wait to see if the industry and union may agree on their own, (2) invoke Taft-Hartley Law's 60-day court-judgment provisions against a continued strike, or (3) ask Congress for special legislation to deal with the situation.

The White House was silent on what might be done.

Presidential Secretary Shoyon by telling reporters: "I don't have anything to say about steel."

He would not answer any questions.

Truman is "likely to be wearing his next move, in any event, being rebuffed on his seizure of the Supreme Court ruled 6-3 yesterday that the President's April 9 order taking over the steel industry was unconstitutional.

Truman remained silent of high court's decision, but Congress members generally applauded with some exceptions. Sen. Ladd (D-Lib-NY) for example, said the ruling with dismay, saying "Congress must act without moment's unnecessary delay."

Red Snipers Peck at U. S. Defenses

Seoul, Korea, June 3 (AP)—Groups of Chinese riflemen peck at United Nations defenses along five miles sector of the Korean front in pre-dawn darkness today.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said Allied artillery blasted all probes of the groups, but in size up to 100 men.

The staff officers made no estimate of Red casualties or the possible significance of the continued probing attacks.

On the Eastern Front troops west of the Saale Valley reported 1,000 rounds of Red artillery and mortar shells fell their positions.

The British officer said that May the Eighth Army inflicted 601 casualties on the Red in the 10th killed.

In the U. S. Fifth Army reported its fighters took an average of 100 Red soldiers and against Red tanks and armor.

Major Gen. A. G. Brown, who hit Kwakwan Tai bridge in west Korea last night and killed only one Red.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, Third Army commander, said that Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Army Commander, took the Front today in light planes.

Far East was a machine gun report that the Red had captured the following day.

The Red said they had captured the following day.

Five Miners Rescued, Five Still Trapped

HOPE, Mich., June 3 (AP)—Rescuers cautiously hurried in search of live, untrapped miners today reported faint tapping sounds from the mine.

Five were trapped some 2,000 feet in the depths of the "Pope" mine Saturday afternoon when one of earth and rock fell in on a sub-tunnel below the main shaft. There was no sound of life. Families and friends kept a hopeful vigil at the mine in the outskirts of the city.

Charles R. Smith, Goshute County sheriff, expressed doubt that the five would be found alive. "It's a miracle," he said, "but some men said a solid rock formation fell in the neck of the cave-in. It may have trapped the five from breathing."

The missing men are Victor Cox, Christopher Mocking, 40; Ben Zehar, 38; and John and James, 33, all of Ironwood, and a brother, 31, of Bessemer, Mich. The others are married.

At the mine, workers labored through the night at three separate rescue attempts, mainly by hand-digging a few feet in the treacherous ground and rock, placing buttermilk into position, then waiting some more. How far they had dug was a grim and unanswerable question.

The depth of the cave-in is 2,000 feet from the mine shaft which leads into the earth at a 65 degree angle. The collapse came from the side of the mine, not from the shaft. The cave-in was not a total one. The miners could not give any account. Another miner, who was in the area who fled to safety through an escape hatch, said he heard a loud crack; then there was a rush of air and dust. "We made tracks," he said.

Work at the mine was suspended last night, as did work on the mine shaft. The mine is owned and operated by Republic Steel Corp. and the miners were to have a vote on strike.

Murray had postponed the strike five times since negotiations broke off in late December. Informed of the Supreme Court ruling, he said:

"The action of the court leaves the members of the United Steelworkers without the benefit of a collective bargaining agreement. In the absence of a wage agreement our members have no alternative other than to cease to work."

Murray issued a statement calling on the steel companies to join in new negotiations on a contract "based firmly upon the recommendations of the Wage Stabilization Board."

John A. Stephens, vice president of the United States Steel Corporation, who served as chairman of the coordinating committee for the companies in the steel-wage negotiations, declared the industry is willing to resume talks. He said:

The workers began streaming out of the steel mills after the Supreme Court acted, even before getting formal strike instructions from Philip Murray, head of the CIO and the steelworkers union.

It was the steelworkers' second strike since their contract expired last Jan. 1. The first walkout lasted only three days, April 29-May 1.

Truman may first try to persuade the industry and union to hold new peace talks. John A. Stephens, U. S. Steel Company vice president and a leading industry negotiator, announced last night that the steel firms, now back in the hands of their private owners, would "sit down with the union without delay to try to reach a fair settlement of the steel strike."

Murray, too, had suggested renewed talks but insisted that the

Civilian Ike Ready to Fight for Delegates

By The Associated Press

Primaries in three states and a convention in a fourth formed a political backdrop today as Gen. Dwight Eisenhower swapped his military career for a chance to be President.

At his own request, the five-star general is retiring without pay from the army he has served for 37 years. After a final round of conferences in Washington — including a meeting with newsmen at the Pentagon — he heads for his Kansas home.

In South Dakota and California, Republican and Democratic primaries alike were selecting presidential — nominating delegates. Democratic delegates were being chosen in an Alabama primary and in a Maryland convention.

At first blush, the South Dakota balloting looked unimportant — only 14 Republican and eight Democratic delegates being elected to serve at next month's national conventions in Chicago.

But to Eisenhower and his chief rival for the Republican presidential nomination, Ohio's Sen. Robert Taft, the psychological prize far outweighed the small number of delegate votes involved.

Taft and Eisenhower were rated neck-and-neck for South Dakota's 14 GOP votes. It is their last clear-

...union was still standing on Wage Stabilization Board recommendations for a 26-cent-an-hour "back pay" increase in an 18-month contract. These terms have been unacceptable to the industry.

Stephens pointed out that the industry has offered a 12-1/2 cent hourly pay boost, plus about five cents an hour in "fringe" benefits, or 17-1/2 cents in all. It was understood this offer was contingent, however, on government approval of higher steel prices. Workers presently make about $1.95 an hour, including overtime.

Any Truman appeal for special legislation probably would have to hold hearings. Only after receiving the board's report could Truman authorize seeking of the 80-day court injunction against a continuing strike.

State Guards to Train at Polk

Little Rock, June 3 (UP)—Arkansas National Guard officers plan to go to Camp Polk, La., tomorrow to complete arrangements for the summer encampment of some 3,000 of the state's guardsmen.

Major Ernest McDaniels, guard operations officer, said today this year's annual encampment will be held Aug. 3-17.

He said that seven officers headed by Col. Alton Balkman will make the trip tomorrow.

The plan is to work out all arrangements for troop housing, equipment and supplies for this summer's encampment during the conference tomorrow," McDaniels said.

cut just before the July 7 convention. A Taft victory could dull some of the luster of the general's homecoming. A win for Eisenhower would make him a hard man to stop at the convention. About 120,000 voters are expected to turn out.

The Democratic race there, by comparison, was mild. Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee is conceded a favorite over a state organization slate pledged to Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

Republicans take top billing in California, too, where 70 GOP and 68 Democratic delegate votes are at stake. Officials look for 3,600,000 votes from the 5,300,000 registration.

California Gov. Earl Warren is backed by the state's leading Republican presidential nomination. He has accused political foes of waging a hate campaign and, last night, said they spent a half-million dollars in an effort to defeat him.

Kefauver and Taft are front-runners in the Associated Press tabulation of nationwide delegate strength. The tally — based on concessions, pledges, instructions and avowed preferences and not including today's results — shows:

Republican — Taft 420, Eisenhower 387. Nomination requires 694.

Democrat — Kefauver 150, Russell 80 1-2 W. Averell Harriman 85 1-2 Nomination needs 618.

Won't Drive Prisoners, Reds Are Told

Munson, Korea, June 3 (AP)—Gen. William K. Harrison today told Communist truck negotiators the U. N. Command will not drive captured Reds "to you at the point of a bayonet."

He declared at today's fruitless armistice session:

"The attainment of an armistice is now prevented only by your inhuman demand that the U. N. Command force prisoners of war to return to a way of life so repugnant to them that they prefer death in its stead. . . . The United Nations Command will not drive persons to you at the point of a bayonet."

North Korean Gen. Nam II refused to budge from the Red position that all prisoners be returned, by force if necessary.

"The next step in the armistice negotiations is wholly up to your side," Nam added.

At Communist insistence another session was scheduled for tomorrow at Pannunjom at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. Tuesday EST).

Harrison again suggested the Communists observe a re-screening of captured Reds. Nam declined. The Allies say that a screening of captured Red soldiers and civilian internees showed only 70,000 of 169,000 held would return to Red soil without a fight.

What to do about these prisoners blocks a truce. The Communists demand return of all their captured soldiers regardless of their personal wishes.

Mississippi Picks Three GOP Delegates

Jackson, Miss., June 3 (AP)—Mississippi Republicans will send three delegations to the national convention in July, each claiming the right to cast the state's five votes.

One group will back Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio for the presidential nomination, another Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and the third will be uncommitted, but with Eisenhower leanings.

Two delegations belong to the "Lily White" faction, so-called because it is composed principally of white Republicans. It is the only Republican group recognized by the State of Mississippi.

The faction split at its state convention last night. A group claiming to represent about one-third of the convention delegates walked out with the announcement that its five votes would be pledged to Eisenhower.

The other delegates voted to send an uncommitted delegation to the national convention. Some of these delegates, however, were sympathetic to Eisenhower.

The other Mississippi faction, composed mostly of Negroes, is recognized by the national party as the official Republican party in Mississippi. At its April 30 convention it pledged to support Taft.

GI Rights Bill Is Delayed

Washington, June 3 (AP)—The House has put off until Thursday a vote on a GI bill of rights for those in military service since the start of the Korean War.

Rep. Springer (R-Ill.) objected to consideration of the measure yesterday under a rule which limited debate to 40 minutes and required the bill be accepted or rejected as presented.

He said he wanted to propose knocking out a provision that the government pay directly to veteran lump sums covering all tuition fees, books and other education expenses in addition to subsistence allowances. This is the major difference from the World War II GI bill, under which all payments except those for subsistence are made to the schools attended by the veterans.

Syphilis and Gonorrhea are still crippling and killing people in the United States. Victims suffer from this disease.

No record is kept by doctors or clinics on whether or not the patient recovers. He is left to spread the disease to everyone else and die with it.

If a patient quits a doctor or clinic before getting well he should be reported to health authorities who would see that he resumes treatment. This would stamp out venereal disease in the United States.

Taft Backers Charge Clique Movement

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Ten Republican governors—all Eisenhower-for-president men—accused backers of Sen. Robert Taft today of trying to put party control under a small clique.

The governors' statement did not name Taft, but the targets of their attack were clearly identified as they challenged that a wing of the party jeopardized chances of a Republican victory in November by overruling majority wishes in Texas, Louisiana and Georgia.

Taft, senator from Ohio, and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower are the principal opponents for the Republican presidential nomination.

The statement, put out by Rep. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, said that by naming rump delegates from the three states to the GOP convention, the party wing was driving away potential Republican votes.

Listed as signers of a statement were Governors Sherman Adams of New Hampshire; C. Elmer Anderson of Minnesota; Edward F. Arn of Kansas; Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey; Walter J. Kohler Jr. of Wisconsin; John Davis Lodge of Connecticut; Douglas McKay of Oregon; Frederick G. Payne of Maine; Val Peterson of Nebraska and Dan Thornton of Colorado.

To win in November, the statement said, the Republican Party must "go before the electorate with complete integrity."

Sewer Contract Ruled Valid

Little Rock, June 3 (AP)—A Judge Thomas C. Trimble says the city of Pine Bluff and its Sewer Commission must not annul a sewer system installation contract.

Judge Trimble issued a restraining order yesterday to Pine Bluff and set June 12 for a hearing on a suit filed by Lancaster and Love, Inc., of Dallas, Tex., charging the city with breach of contract. The suit said Pine Bluff sought to cancel a sewer installation contract with the company.

The suit also alleged the city owed the Dallas firm about $100,000.

Oil Estimates Again Suspended

Tulsa, Okla., June 3 (AP)—The Oil and Gas Journal suspended for the fourth straight week today its weekly estimate of daily average domestic crude oil production.

The Journal explained that information was lacking from some areas as to the effect on production of excessive accumulation of crude stocks during the oil industry strike.

DOROTHY DIX

Judge Braggart Gently

Dear Miss Dix: I will be grateful if you can help me. I am 25 engaged to a man 26. When I first knew him I believed I loved him; now I'm not so sure. He told me he had money to give me a good home and was working at a good job. I had complete confidence in him and believed every word. He told me these things when I first knew him — before he was sure of me. Now, when I know him better, I find out he doesn't have any money, and isn't working at the job he claimed he was. He has no family, so there's no background for me to use as a gauge of his stability. He has bought me a beautiful engagement ring, and has given me nice gifts, so I'm sure he means well, but I can't understand these early untruths. He is at present earning a good living, but his job is not as exalted as one as I was led to believe. Am I right in believing that my confidence has been betrayed?

Answer: Very, very few people are completely honest and in evaluating the seriousness of most untruths, we must search closely for the reason behind them. The range of lies runs from the small, white fib to dark treachery, and most folks are guilty, at least occasionally, of evading the truth in one degree or another between the two extremes. Of course, there is no moral or ethical condemnation for any form of lying, but since it is one of the most commonplace of human weaknesses, we cannot tar all fibbers with the pitch of social ostracism.

He Needs Sympathy
Braggart is a form of deception that yields very easily to analysis. It is significant evidence of a need for understanding sympathy or love. Lacking these essentials to a balanced emotional life, a person soon finds that a little boasting or bragging produces the desired response in another, and proceeds to work the weapon of death.

Your fiancé was brought up with out family ties, and never had the love and security that comes from a happy home life. When he met you and realized you held the key to his future happiness, he was naturally bound to get and keep you by any means available. Can you judge him too harshly for this very human desire? Now, since he is sure of you, the necessity for deception has passed, and the truth has been laid at your feet. Probably the only standard by which your fiancé has been able to judge his fellow men is financial; consequently it became so important to him that he built himself up as a material success in your eyes.

Marrying a man who has never known the warmth of a family produces many complications for a girl. She must teach him what most people have already learned — how to create a home, with all its component and complex relationships.

If you love your fiancé enough to understand the reasons behind his apparently infantile bragging, to make allowances for his ignorance of daily, family living, you will doubtless reap a rich reward in his appreciative response. You and you alone can be the judge of that problem.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a very lonely girl of 13. My friends say I'm attractive and, while I have some boy friends, I have no girl chum. When I see girls going for walks on Sunday I feel very lonely, since I'm left at home. How can I find a girl friend?

Answer: As you requested, I am-mitted part of your letter which I gather that you are particular about the kind of you choose. Such discernment is praiseworthy indeed, but I feel to limit your friendships to find, however, that when you make friends, they are of average character and will be loyal and true; long after casually acquired pals would you.

Remain true to your ideal though it means occasional loss for you.

Are you sure you have no popular with girls? Do you of your boy friends, but too strict to defer to the opinion of others? Any of these faults keep friends away from you. member, the kind of person want to attract will be just cringing about the fact they keep as you are.

Dear Miss Dix: My husband and I have two boys, 6 and 2. I would like very much to have a little girl, as we feel she would make our family circle complete. Another child of our own might be a boy, so we wonder if we should adopt a little girl about 4 years old. Do you think an adoption would give us a child under circumstances?

Answer: Yours is the most insistently ridiculous proposition I have encountered in a long time. Since you are capable of having children of your own, thank for the privilege and take them when they come. There is nothing in an all-boy or an all-girl family. Either one is fine, as thousands of parents whose children are all of one sex would be glad to affirm.

There aren't enough adoptive children to go around now, and you would be most unfair of you to deprive a childless couple of a star they need much more than you do.

I doubt very much if a reputable agency would give you a girl under these circumstances. For one thing, your attitude in the matter shows a mental quickness that is an immediate stumbling block to an adoption.

Foreign Policy Depends on Power

June 3 (AP) — Sen. Taft says a strong American policy must be built on power potent enough to prevent a continent from attacking the United States.

The Ohio senator, who is principal for the Republican nomination, has said there has been a deterioration in our country's power, which began in 1918.

He said the administration, Taft said, has permitted this nation's air supremacy to be lost.

He said the world is now a collection of nations on a par with the United States.

He said the United States must have a policy of self-defense, and he said the United States must have a policy of self-defense.

He said the United States must have a policy of self-defense, and he said the United States must have a policy of self-defense.

Most of the seniors have found employment or plan to enter college. R. W. Coley hopes to enter the University. Nina Thompson, Henderson State Teachers College, Betty Jane Stanton, Martha Ann Green, and Bovilla McJunkins have applied for secretarial work at Texarkana. Oats Harwell, Charles McJunkins, Jimmie Phillips and Don Gathright either have or will soon start work at Texarkana. Jerry Bowles, a former member of the class, now in the Navy, arrived home for a visit with his mother and sister, Mrs. W. A. Bowles and Shirley Jean, two days too late for graduation of his class.

All the high school teachers will probably attend school part of the summer. James McCorkle Jr., and Mr. Peebles will work on master degrees at Penobscot. It is believed Mr. Thompson will attend Henderson and Opal Wahle will do some study on library work.

Several scholarships were presented in present foreign policy a fraud.

"When Mr. Truman talks of it," Taft said, "he means that he will make the policy and the Republicans must always go along with it."

Little Rock, June 2 (AP) — Arkansas farmers can really stick out their chests these days. A steady stream of people have been coming into the state in a search for answers to their farming problems.

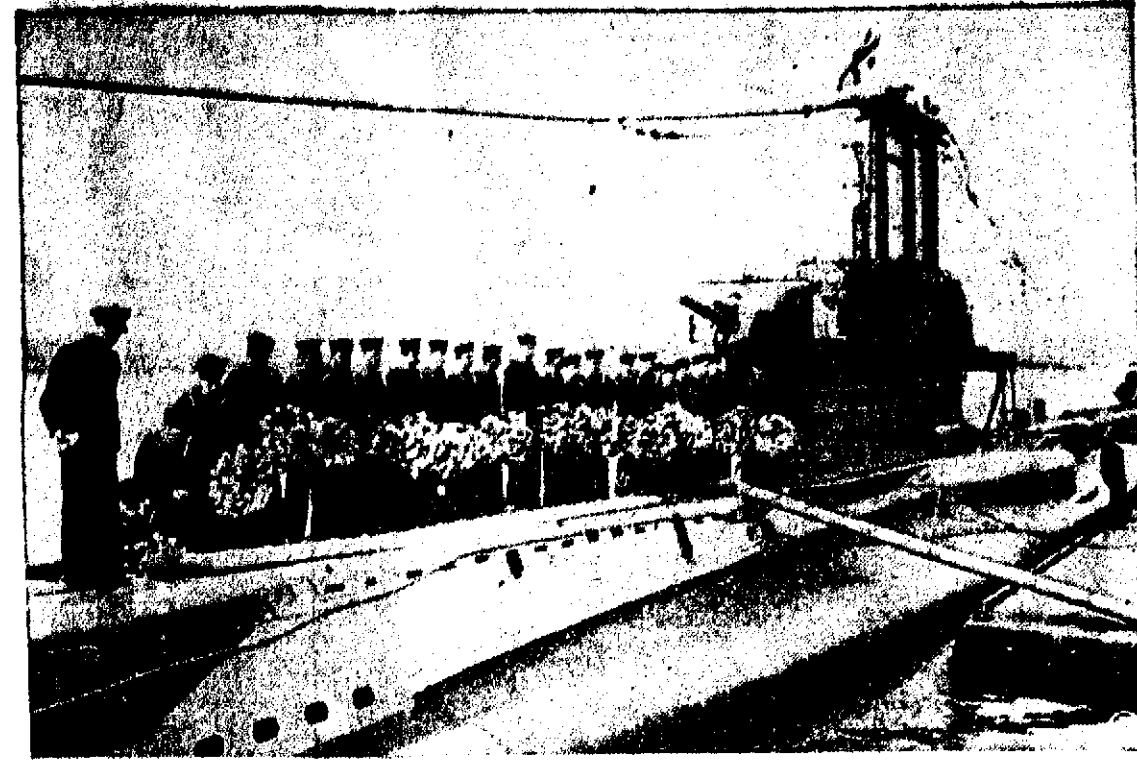

sent to the valedictorian, Betty Jane Stanton, and to salutatorian Helen Marie Sanders. Betty also received a years subscription to the Reader's Digest. Bovilla McJunkins received a business college scholarship and R. W. Coley won one on his race for salutatorian. Jerry Hargis, a junior, was winner of a Ford Foundation scholarship from the University of Louisville in Kentucky. Arrangements are in "the making" for one for R. W. Coley at the University of Arkansas.

The senior dinner at the Okay lunch room Sunday was a success in every way. The meal was prepared by Mrs. R. R. Coley, Mrs. George Thompson, Mrs. Harold Doskey, Mrs. Charlie Collins, and Mrs. Clay Delaney. They were assisted by Mrs. Barney Stanton and Mrs. Ed Stone. Cakes were baked by Mrs. Brice Fricks and Mrs. Marcellus Sanders.

In the decoration for the closing exercises, Mr. McCorkle and the Juniors were assisted by Mrs. Joe Hargis. Escorts were Bonnie Jo Sipes and Ralph Erwin. Ushers were Ruby Jo Shirley and Patsy Sipes. Sara Joe Fontaine was pianist. The baccalaureate sermon was given by Rev. Elbert O'Steen from Hope and commencement address by Byron Thompson, class sponsor awards by Opal Wahle. The invocation and benediction were by Mr. Peebles, Mr. J. B. Gray and M. H. Peebles.

Jack Schooley, one of our bus drivers, has started the painting on the interior of the gymnasium.

In looking over the honor roll for the year, we find that Margie Cannon is the only one whose name appears every period. Others whose names appear through the list are Linda Sipes, Eunice McJunkins, William Marshall Sanders, Sonya Diddy, Margaret Marshall, and Sara Jo Fontaine.

HONOR THEIR DEAD—A Royal Navy honor detail holds wreaths aboard the British submarine Alliance at Gosport, preparing to drop them over the spot in the English Channel where the Alliance's sister ship, H.M.S. Affray, submerged and never resurfaced just a year ago. Affray's crew of 75 officers and men perished in the disaster.

IT SHOULDN'T HAPPEN TO A DOG—"Pop" Pomeranian, left, doesn't approve of this "family" portrait. Seems that Mama Pomeranian just couldn't take care of their three new pups, and so an old Persian friend, with two kittens, took over the job. Everyone else at the home of Viola Van Dieman in Milwaukee is pleased with the arrangement.

What to Do Is Puzzle to Congressmen

Washington, June 3 (AP) — Congress found itself pretty much up in the air today over what to do as a result of the Supreme Court's decision outlawing President Truman's seizure of the steel industry.

Afflicted with election-year jitters and reluctant to approve any further enlargement of the executive's powers, lawmakers were almost completely lacking in agreement on any concrete course of action to deal with the situation.

For the most part, Congress members looked to the President for a cue.

Key members of both House and Senate felt the immediate alternative to a steel strike deadlock was for Truman to invoke the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law with its 60-day no-strike injunction, and hope for the best through collective bargaining.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said the Court's decision "restores the concept that it is better to have a law (Taft-Hartley) even if it is a bad law, than to rely on this dangerous doctrine of inherent powers."

But there was ready acknowledgment that Congress must grapple sooner or later with the larger question of legislation to cope with strikes affecting the national welfare outside the scope of Taft-Hartley.

Troubling congress was: What kind of legislation?

In the Senate, Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.) said he thought it important that Congress "pass additional legislation to apply at the expiration of the Taft-Hartley 60-day cooling off period if the Taft-Hartley Law is invoked, and earlier if it is not invoked."

Rep. Celler (D-N.Y.) chairman of the house judiciary committee, said he planned to introduce at once in the house a bill already put before the Senate by Sen. Morse (R-Ore.).

The Morse bill would provide for appointment of a presidential fact-finding commission. If the president determined a national emergency existed on the basis of the facts, he could serve notice on Congress of intention to seize property in the nation's interest. The seizure would become effective after five days if not vetoed by Congress.

On the other side of the picture, anti-seizure legislation still is pending in both Chambers.

library. Little Henry and the animals were getting their share, and the baby was passed from lap to lap. Malcolm had it handed to him as he entered; he dangled it expectantly while he reported:

"Wolfman's a nice man. I told him all about the wife's neurosis and got all her remedies. He won't thank me for the news that nothing has changed in that ghostly little corner of medicine since her last attack. Wolfman is as good as the day, and he had to do a good deal of historical ability to find out that the first Mrs. A. was a dipomatian. It seems to have started after marriage, and she seems to have brought her pneumonia on by her own unaided efforts, poor thing. Wolfman says she had no wish to live."

"Took to drink, did she?" Gamadge looked at Rana, who was listening intently. "That was her solution. Well, it's one way out."

"I suppose he couldn't have managed it," suggested Clara.

"Don't think so," said Malcolm. "Not the way Wolfman told it. She would get up and go out with a cold on her chest."

"The servants were on deck," said Gamadge. "And there'd be no more."

Rana said after a moment: "I suppose until the pneumonia developed she'd be able to go out if she liked, sick or well."

"You mean those Austen servants wouldn't pay any attention to her?"

"Nobody would," said Rana in a low voice.

Malcolm, the baby over his shoulder, studied her in silence. Then he said: "Well, we can't fix responsibility, that's one sure thing."

Gamadge said with annoyance: "I'm stumped. Completely up a stump. She was our only bet, and Wolfman ruined us."

"You did say those books made you think of something, Mr. Gamadge," said Rana.

"But the worst of it is, what they reminded me of wasn't anything that was in them," said Gamadge with a frown.

"They all looked at him blankly. 'I can't explain,' he told them. 'It's like trying to remember a dream.'"

"But if what you can't remember is anything in the books," urged Clara. "Then it must be that Rana said the books looked like."

"Not exactly," said Gamadge. "Malcolm handed the baby back to Rana and stood staring at nothing and rubbing the back of his head. 'Then it must be because there were two books,' he declared at last."

"That's the catch," said Gamadge. "What I can't remember is only about one of them."

"The number one," said Clara.

"I'm not at all sure," answered Gamadge. "His eyes were rolling. 'Is that I'm about to go?'"

Clara sat down on the edge of the bed, for the first time since she had entered the house, and said:

"I must have missed him," she said.

Kefauver to Visit Arkansas

Little Rock, June 3 (AP) — The second presidential hopeful to visit Little Rock this year, Democrat Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, will visit here, June 26 and 27.

The announcement of Kefauver's visit came from Latane Temple of Little Rock, chairman of the Arkansas for Kefauver for President committee. Kefauver is seeking the Democratic nomination.

Temple said preliminary plans call for a conference with Gov. McMath, a reception and an open-house.

Previously, Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, candidate for the Republican nomination, spoke here.

Lack of Price Support Blame for Shortage

One of the main reasons for smaller production of potatoes and the resultant shortage in grocery stores is undoubtedly due to the lack of a price support program for potatoes, according to Earl Martindale, Chairman of the Hempstead County Production and Marketing Administration committee.

Price supports have not been in effect on potatoes since the 1949 crop, Mr. Martindale said and there has been a marked decrease in acreage seeded to potatoes since then. National acreage of potatoes in 1951 was little more than half the average for the 1940-49 period and the yield also dropped from 253 bushels to 240 bushels per acre.

In Arkansas the acreage of potatoes was 14,000 in 1951 with a yield of 79 bushels per acre compared with a 1941-50 average acreage of 35,000 acres and an average yield of 82 bushels per acre. This year the estimated acreage of potatoes is 12,000 acres.

Crushers participating in the Government's cotton seed price support must pay not less than $66.40 per ton for basis grade (100) cotton seed f. o. b. gin point, with specified premiums and discounts for other grades, the Department of Agriculture has announced.

For each ton of eligible cotton seed purchased by a crusher, Commodity Credit Corporation will offer to buy specified quantities of crude cottonseed oil, 41 per cent protein cake or meal, and linters as a combination "package" in the specified areas. In the valley area, the package will cover 325 pounds of oil, 851 pounds of 41 per cent protein cake or meal and 182 of linters.

The crusher may tender products to CCC, conditioned upon the immediate repurchase from CCC of cake or meal at the current market price as determined by the Production and Marketing Administration. Complete details of the crusher part of the program, including prices, are available from the PMA commodity office in New Orleans or from the Pats and Oil Branch, PMA, Washington 25, D. C.

Other parts of the program include price support loans to growers at $66.40 a ton for basis grade (100), and in areas where a cotton seed purchase program may be necessary, purchases at $62.40 a ton basis grade (100) cotton seed. Operating details of the loan and purchase phases of the program will be announced later.

All insured cotton producers of Hempstead county that have not already done so are requested to report their 1952 planted acreage of cotton to the county PMA office, as soon as possible, but in no event later than June 20. This report is very essential in order that all premiums may be computed correctly and acreages established for any possible future loss claim.
